Five Deaths Connected with Mortensen Case.

JAMES SHARP IS LATEST

EICHNOR AND KOPP ARE AMONG THE OTHERS.

A capful survey of the ramifications of the Mortengeni numrier case shows a peculiar succession of fatalities. Although less than three years have chirped single Peter Mortengen Milled his freight, and the post of the most percentage of the most percen tensen killed his son-in-law. The body had been dug up, and after being placed in the patrol wagon to be brought to the city, stopped at a grocery store near where the murderer and murdered man lived. Mr. Sharp was a member of the crowd that had congregated there, and was discussing the crime when the wagon drove up.

Mounting the side of the wagon, and gazing upon the inanimate form of his son-in-law, which lay in the bottom of the wagon, he said God had revealed to him that Mortensen was the murderer. The accused man stood hear and made to the wagon, he said stood hear and made to the wagon, he was the murderer.

no reply to the accusation, although he heard every word. - At the trial of Mortensen, Mr. Sharp testified to this revelation. It was one of the most dramatic incidents of the trial. It had much to do with the Eichnor's Demise Recent.

It was less than a month ago that District Attorney Dennis C. Eichnor passed away. He prosecuted Mortensen, doing what he could as public prosecutor to collect and prepare for introduction the evidence which ultimately led to Mortensen being shot to death at the Utah state penitentiary. The deaths of both these men were.

The deaths of both these men were udden and unexpected. Mr. Sharp lied in less than a week after being died in less than a week after being taken sick, having eaten some onious and bananas. For several days Mr. Eichnor complained of not feeling well, and Friday asked for a postponement until the following Monday of a murder case he was trying. That night he went home at his accustomed time and shortly after eating his dinner died of heart failure. heart failure.

Juror Among the Dead.

One of the twelve men who tried and onvicted Mortensen is dead-Juror Michael Kopp, the candy manufacturer. He did not live long enough to see the to die Juror Kopp was one of the two or three jurors who did not occupy their accustomed seats in the jury box. The other missing faces were of men who were out of the city and could not be served with subpoenas to be present. Mr. Kopp was dead. The death of Mortensen came next.

The death of Mortensen came next. He was executed by Sheriff C. Frank Emery at the state prison.

Shortly before Mortensen was executed, Miles Romney, who ran a saloon on Second South street between than it is reduced by the pumps, and taking the pumping experiments as a loon on Second South street between than it is reduced by the pumps. William E. Racker, who has been on a two years mission to Denmark, has returned.

Mrs. Mortensen Moves.

One of the most remarkable features of the Mortensen case was that his wife never saw him after he was arrested. A few months after he was taken into custody and charged with murder in the first degree Mrs. Mortensen broke up her home, which was near the scene of the killing, and moved from the city. Before Mortensen was executed in child was born to him, but he never saw the little one.
